“ Nina and Jim, I'm so sorry about Aaron. He was such a great and sweet guy. He was so caring and polite to everyone. You guys know how much ,my family loves all of you, I wish I had the power to make your hearts quit aching but I don't. I can only send my love and thoughts to you. He may not be here in person anymore but you will always have your memories of him. We all will. Life seems mean sometimes, but God must have wanted another sweet Angel to guide the little ones with his big heart. Love you all so much, Love, Kathy Crump

You and my Mom shared a special bond of love. She talks of the memories of you as a little boy and sitting on her lap. With our deepest sympathy and love to everyone, Debi and John

“ To all my grieving family, I send prayers of sympathy and healing. Aaron will be sorely missed by so many. It is the duty of all of us to keep alive our memories of him as we continue in our lives, the best we can, dealing with our grief as we go. Those who can, must make that new grandson of his know how much Aaron loved him, and how proud he was to be his grandfather. To my sister, Nina and brother-in-law Jim, I can only say that my heart is breaking as well, and I wish there were some magic words that would instantly lessen your pain. Regretfully, no such words exist. To my nephews, Jimmy, Mike, Eric, Christopher, Joel, and Ryan, I say have patience in these coming days, if your parents responses to you don't come as quickly as you might want. Your hearts are heavy, but theirs are heavier still. Give them and yourselves time to grieve, and love one another. This loss will never get easy, but in ytime, it will lighten. Till then, lift each other's spirits whenever you can. To Aaron, gone but never forgotten, rest in God's peace that surpasses all human understanding until we meet again. Uncle Everett

“ I grew up with Aaron with being a big part during my early teenage years. Without Aaron and his family's support, I can't honestly say where my sister's relationship would have steered.

Nina, is a very giving person. She made sure I had a ride back and forth to visit my sister Aly who was Aaron's girlfriend, every weekend.

The last time I saw Aaron a year ago at Carly's baby shower, it had been years since we saw each other, we embraced without any hesitation. Talked for nearly the entire time.

Sad to know he is gone. RIP Aaron

“ I wish I knew the right words to say or the right way to feel. I let miles and other situations steer my relationship with Aaron in a direction I'm not happy with, but I always loved him and I hope he knew that.

Aunt Nina, my heart breaks with and for you, and I wish you didn't have to go through this. The universe is certainly a cruel, cruel place. Please lean on your family and friends as much as you need; they will get you through this. I'm sending you all my love from NC.

This day was crazy/fun!

It is hard to imagine he is gone. Aly and Aaron raised me through several years of foster care when I was young. I will never forget how Aaron's mom Nina would drive all the way out to Grandview to pick me up for weekends to stay at their pads. Nina and her family were always supportive of me and my sister's bond. Aaron always was caring and included me when I was around. He was definitely goofy. These old memories are what flood to me now....

“ To the whole family, I love you all so much your my second family. My heart aches, I'm so sorry. Just know I'm here for anything you need! And as for memories I have our whole lives worth, he was my big brother, my protector and the best guy friend a girl could ever ask for. I loved him so much and am very thankful for times we had from toddlers to adult hood. We played video games, raced doing word searches, played kickball, basketball, jumped ramps on our bikes. We watched wrestling, listened to our favorite band metallica, walked to school, or the bus stop together everyday, shared many conversations and heart aches together. I always believed he deserved complete happiness and that's when I introduced him to my girl bestie Aly. And they made a wonderful baby boy and he was so happy made me happy. I gave my first born son his middle name, they almost shared a birthday. I could go on and on about Aaron, I'll miss him very much 😞

I feel very blessed and fortunate to have shared with Aaron what most have not. He was my first love, and my first shattering heart break (THIS makes twice). We shared a home, friends and family, good and bad times, our teens and early twenties. I share his first born planned child, our beautiful son and his namesake Aaron Alan Ashlock, Jr. We had a lasting 25 yr friendship that I thank God for. And last but not least, we shared Aaron's pride and joy... our grandson, Aiden Aaron Ashlock (who's 1st birthday we just celebrated together 5 days prior to the accident). He was the life of the party wherever he went. He had a big, happy voice/laugh that filled the room. He always had a joke, (or a toke) for anyone who might need it. He loved music! After he asked me to marry him, I didn't know who Peter Frampton was... He said he wouldn't marry me until I got it right from then on when he came on the radio... I nailed it everytime from then on! LOL! We went to SO many concerts, went cliff diving with friends, camping with family, welcomed the birth of new Ashlock's into the world, and so much more. Aaron, you are sorely, deeply missed and loved. I hope you knew that. This world isn't the same without you!

Nina and Jim,

There are so many memories to look back on but some of my favorite were are Christmas time. When Nina would think she had everyone's presents hid well enough that they wouldn't be found but we could always tell when everyone decided that upstairs was the place to be. By the time Christmas day hit everyone knew what they were getting and half the cookies we worked so hard on were gone. Aaron was a wonderful delight growing up and I had hopes for that singing voice of his. I will miss him and never forget how he looked out for my girl.
