“ It has officially been 439 days since your death and for some reason me posting here makes me feel like I'm talking to you. A lot has happened and I know you're watching over mom, Allie, and me and your other family members but it's still weird to not see your stocking during Christmas. One thing I can't bring myself to do is watch our old family videos because I miss the memories. I hate the fact I won't have you at graduation and it's been bothering me a lot lately knowing the fact you won't be there for my big accomplishments in life. I trust in the fact that you will be watching over me and applauding as I walk the stage. Thank you for being a great big brother and I know I was a lot to handle but you taught me many lessons in life that I will always cherish.

“ The first 4th of July without you and I miss you making fun of me for sitting in the car because I was scared of the fireworks. I always am trying to make jokes to get through the rough times but the quiet moments always get me because I miss you.. I miss my big brother and even though we didn't talk a lot for the last couple of years it was the small check in's and the little things that let me know that you still cared. I am trying to do everything in my power to make you proud and to live a good happy life because I've always wanted to leave and get to talk to you again but unfortunately our time was cut short. One day I will get to see you again but every now and then you pop up in my dreams and replay old memories. Thank you for being a good brother.

“ This year definitely took a turn. The beginning of the year was the worst but now it's starting to take a turn for the better. It's like walking across an old wiggly bridge in a way.. some pieces will fall but some are still sturdy, some days are complete ass but you still keep going even if it feels like the world is crumbling around you. Whenever I have the time, I always look at old family videos and it's funny to watch how we used to play, and it's nice to remember that we had good times. We most definitely bumped heads a lot but I liked our moments where we are somewhat nice to each other. I wish you knew how important the little moments were to me where you would text me out of the blue and always checked in but it wasn't as often as I would have wanted and I always wanted to figure out a time where we could see each other again even if it was for 2 minutes but this was definitely not how I wanted our reunion to be. You were a good soul and I hope that you are thriving and that you are watching over us.

“ Everyday seems to get a little better. Every now and then I get small things during the day that I know it's you that sent that them. Blue Jays have been everywhere and Red Cardinals. Whenever I feel sad your picture randomly falls and I know it's you telling me you're there. I never knew this would be so hard but it's getting easier day by day. I'm going to achieve my goals and I'm going to carry you with me. Thank you for being the bright light in people's lives especially OUR lives

“ It was your birthday 2 days ago and I didn't know it would hit so hard. It's been awhile since we talked but at least I knew you were spending your birthday with family but now it's just different. Days just seem to go in slow motion. I keep reminding myself to stay happy and live the life you deserved but it's hard to keep going knowing the fact at the end you the day I can't go to you telling you about it. I miss you so much.. I love you Bobby.

“ It's so hard to believe that you have been gone for 30 days now. Every day is still hard and I am still struggling. I still wait for you to call just to tell me about your day. I miss you so much Bobby. I found a card you had given me today. It made me smile and cry. I am always thinking about you and I love you so much. Love you, mom

“ You were an amazing brother. Of course we tortured each other the way we should but you always had to a way keep in contact. You texted me every now and then checking in and I just wish we were able to have one more conversation. You are an amazing, creative, kind-hearted, funny, and overall absolutely extraordinary person. You were Bobby. We will miss you always. I love you.

“ Son. When you came into my life, I had no idea what life was about to give me. Your mom brought you in in your infant seat. As mom puts it, little Roley Poli. And puts you down in front of the fireplace. You were maybe 6 months old. One of the four cutest babies I have ever seen. Yet still I had no idea. Tyler and you made me a dad before I ever knew that's what I wanted to be. Many years and even more memories later. The 4 of you boys, gave us a life that most only dream about. And then you being the first, followed by your two younger brothers. To graduate high school from the same one I did. There's so many things I can say. But you made me very proud. You aren't my blood. But we will always be family. Bobby, son. I love you. Help watch over Mom, Tyler, Julian and Josh Jr. And I'm still always here

“ Bobby, you came into our lives early in your life and infected us with your giggles and smile. We watched you transform Cady into "mom" and Jim and Mary into "Papa and Mema", roles they were proud to take on and grow in to. You brought smiles and laughter to all who loved you. May you rest in peace, you'll always be in our hearts!

Cady, Tori, Allisyn, Jim and Mary my heart and prayers go out to you, hold tight to your memories as they are now your treasures.

Stan, Alice, other family - my condolences and prayers to you all.

“ Little did You know at the young age of 2 of the tremendous responsibility you had bestowed upon you. I have never seen a one arm push-up besides you! You were the first to teach us to experience as grandparents how to change diapers, fix hurts, snuggle, read books, play, tease, how to be a horse, and teach to drive. You taught the family to be a brother and endure sisters. You made the family learn to be a Mom and Dad. You made us learn to be Grandma and Grandpa, you made us learn to be sisters and brothers, Aunts and Uncles and cousins. You made it possible to learn to celebrate Christmas and birthdays as a new generation. You were the first to grow up and graduate. (you were also the first picklepuss) And you were the first to teach us to mourn. You excelled and we are all so heartbroken by tragedy!!

You accomplished so much in such a short amount of time. The - between April 7, 1997 and January 14, 2021 is enormously reflective of the impact you have had in our lives!!

It was an honor and privilege to have you in my life!! Thank you, RIP, Love you BIG! Papa

“ Bobby, I hope u know how much u were/are loved. The endless trips to Leon, each time we saw u so many changes or how u were growing. From that little guy the first times meeting you, watching a family bond grow; Being ring bearer when your dad and other Mom (Cady), got married. Then u became a big brother to 2 little sisters, Tori and Alli; your Papa and Mema, always beaming with pride, they fell in love with u from your very first visit, as did Great Grandma.

Cady loved and prayed for you so many times, when u had no idea; and continues to. She has always had your back. Life throws so many curve balls and it's hard to understand, the why and ifs. I hope your flying high with the angels, and always watch over those that love u, drop a penny, have a Cardinal fly by, send messages that your doing well in your journey; you will be missed, memories will fill hearts, and may everyone learn kindness and grace from this tragedy.

Cady, Tori, Alli, Jim and Mary, I send love and blessings of peace to each of u. Stan, my heart also aches for u and my sincere condolences at this trying time, also to Alice, may comfort come to your hearts.

My sympathy to your other family that hearts are hurting as well.

Blessings to u all as God wraps you in his arms.
Much love,
Aunt Pam
