“ Danny was a good friend with a good heart. We roamed about as kids and into the most marvelous mischief. Too many stories to tell but I will mention the time a group of us waded out very late on a rainy night to sneak a hay wagon across town to sit right outside my parents window. our intent was to recreate the "War Wagon" from the John Wayne film complete with turret. Our group never did anything small whether it be building armoured wagons, building bridges or protecting neighborhood with a homemade flamethrower. Danny was always curious and inventive and a true friend while growing up. He will certainly be missed.
