“Daddy, I cannot express enough how much I love you and am happy you have arrived into eternal life with your family and friends who have went before you. I am at peace our last moments we shared. I enjoyed ruffling your feathers about that "girlfriend" that I knew didn't exist but that rise out of you made it all worth it and cute especially at your young age. I will forever cherish the video we took because although it had no sound I knew what you said word for word your facial expressions said it all. That video will forever be our private moment between you and I. You and hospice nurses knew exactly why I didn't want to experience your last moments we as parents do not want our kids to suffer reason I felt you wanted to go in private I truly believe this daddy because no one was there you passed in private and I totally respect that. Your pain is our pain as parents we don't want to see our children suffer watching a loved one pass and for that daddy thank you. Fly with the angels Daddy Dwayne and I will take it from here. Until we meet again I love you!

Love,
Rhonda Jean
