“ From the very first time I met Fred, I noticed how he enjoyed spending time with company and he had great stories to tell about his experiences. He liked fishing and spending time outside. He loved his family and being a grandpa gave deeper meaning to life. Even though he struggled with his health, he remained upbeat and kept fighting. I enjoyed our conversations about raising children, about religion, and about the one that got away. My sympathy to his family, Fred will be greatly missed.
