“ I am the oldest grandchild, I am 65 yrs old it is painful to lose my last grandma even now.
. There were kinda two sets of grandchildren cause Mom started off a lot earlier than the boys did.
I have lots of memories in that big kitchen they had. There was a special cabinet with books and color books and all kinds of cool stuff...just for us. And there we were splayed out all over the kitchen floor or table scribbling away.
The front closet held other treasures like beautiful dresses. The type you would wear to a dinner party. There were ladies dress up shoes and purses and hats.
Grammy Patton was a frequent visitor. I remember games of Scrabble and checkers and Chinese checkers. Also teaching me and my sister how to crochet, how to sew Barbie clothes. The best were the tea parties where we learned about baking bread and treats.
She was a wonderful grandma to all of us. I have missed her already for a while now. Can't wait til we meet again. May she rest in eternal peace.
