“ I can't believe you're gone, I just talked to you at the beginning of September, and learned of your passing today. I know you're at peace now and up in heaven with Julie, looking down smiling on your kids. RIP Jimmie Dale.

“ It's so hard for me not to write a book on here 😭 My new nickname for you is my Imperfectly Impatient Stubborn Best Friend!
We got each other through some of the worst times in life that most people couldn't possibly understand, especially both of us losing our spouses in their 30s!
What's the odds of us knowing each other's spouses and being tight as we all were! You finally talked me into moving to Kansas to make a better life for Jaeda and I and get us grounded again after everything we had been doing through and trying wasn't happening in Tennessee. I don't regret moving here, I have been getting settled in and never imagined being here without my best friend helping me through like always! I've been trying to do my usual job of trying to save you from yourself but God took the wheel instead. Jaeda and I loved you the way you were, faults and all! Thanks for loving her like your own as I do with yours always! I'm at peace knowing you are with Julie and no longer in pain and suffering! It's been hard to watch it and not be able to do much to help. You would be proud of Nik stepping up and taking your place and getting things done! The girls are dealing with it and working as a team with Nik like you would have wanted! I'm proud of them all! You finally get to rest knowing I got your back always with your family and kids. They have wrapped their arms around Jaeda and I and we couldn't be more thankful! We love and miss you always! Now cool your jets for the last time and know we all can take it from here!

“ You were my second love, my cowboy, we had a lot of good memories, I have been thinking of those memories. Thank you for letting me be a mother to your kids! I just wish you would have done some things, that would have helped you. You are no longer in pain, but I am not sure where you are and don't know if you are with Julie and I know you missed her a lot and she was your only true love and will always be, since I have done the Revelation Study and of the end times, I don't know if you were saved or not, Jesus will make that call. Your kids will get through this they have each other, they have their spouses families, their grandparents and Nik still has his mom, and with god helping them. Rest in Peace, maybe we will see each other again. I am sorry that we didn't get to last a lifetime and that things didn't turn out how they should of and I know God should of been involved in our relationship and I know a lot more than when we were married. I still can't believe you are gone.

“ I remember when your Uncle Jerry passed away you thought I was no longer your aunt and so you start calling me Linda and one day I corrected you and said I will always be your aunt and you called me Aunt Linda from then on. I have always been close to your dad and mom. They treated me with respect in the loss of your uncle Jerry. Rip in peace nephew you will be missed. Aunt Linda “ Met Jimmie in 6th grade, I was given his lunch money check as change for my lunch money check. We became friends and it was a standing joke between my mom and Wanda how it all happened. Fly high my friend.

“ My husband, I love you more than anything! You and I had so much love for each other and traveled and saw places neither of us had been! You and I went through a lot of ups and down over the years, but we always had each other!!! I will truly miss you more than words could express. You were my rock and home and I was your's! Your with Jesus now! No more pain and anxiety! Your at peace!
