“ I was fairly new to Kansas, went to work at a bar several miles southwest of Lawrence and had a bad evening, especially when I was told my ride wouldn't be picking me up at closing time. I sat down on the ground in the breezeway area and may have had tears of frustration stream down my face when Lindsay walked by. She stopped, looked at me & says: “Didn't you say you live in Lawrence?” I nodded. She offered to drive me home. Here was this young woman (who I now know was only 3 years older than my eldest daughter) helping me, a stranger just because it was the right thing to do. Another time, she privately told me that drinking was affecting my work/income. She's noticed the change & told me as much. “It's effecting your money. I'd quit if I were you”. I knew all too well she was right. She'd buy safety supplies for some of our careless co-workers each night she came in. I don't think she needed these supplies, but was concerned for those that may. I then too, started buying them & putting them where she did, no one even knowing it was her who supplied them. She was honest, non-judgemental, & kind. Someone I'd call an “old soul” (in the best way) Her parents & children remain in my prayers. She sure did love her family. All of You.
