“ I am thankful that i got to spend a few years getting to know Mrs. Esparza. After some time i was able to call her my friend. I loved to say her name...for her and my mother had the same first name.(that was our bond) Margie thank you for the many dinners you cooked and our little talks we had. You taught me alot about the spanish culture. I remember Thursdays nights you did your shopping. No more pain. R.I.P. sending prayers of peace and comfort to the Esparza family.

“ Memories of aunt Margie, back in the mid 70's she loved shopping at K-Mart & Sears, we went shopping when I was there visiting. She also made some delicious homemade cinnamon rolls, yummy.

“ My main memory of Aunt Margie was her running me out of her kitchen for eating the homemade tortilla chips; I was eating them as fast as she could cook them....and with lots of salt. Strange where your mind goes when you lose someone, then you ask yourself, "Why didn't I call or visit more often.
