“ Mary was often the first to greet us at church. She always reminded Floyd that she was praying for him. Her sweet presence will be missed by us, but we rejoice in her Homecoming.

Mary and Tom were great neighbors. Mary would see us in the yard and out she would come to talk. I would always know when she was home because of the curtain on the sliding glass door. If she didn't have that curtain open in the late afternoon I would start to worry. She left us with such a gift of loving and cheerfulness she will be missed - our thoughts and prayers are with you boys and your families.
