“ Dad.. I am beside myself right now. This cannot be real.. I cannot wrap my head around this event. I know we didn't always see eye to eye.. but you were 6'3" and I am only 5'10".. sorry had to throw a joke in. I miss you already daddy.. as I grew I realized the things you did had purpose and meaning.. not just because. Thank you for everything you did.. everything you sacrificed to make sure we had everything we needed. The true meaning of a man.. father and mentor. The memories are so many.. Texas trip to the beach.. playing ball in the backyard.. going to Memorial Hall for wrestling.. the hunting trips and smelling the lettuce on the way home that mom was cutting for tacos. My all time favorite memory would have to be when I was 14.. the pride I felt that day.. the love.. the meaning. Dad you know what I am talking about. Thank you. It's all I can say. You meant the world to me and I never really showed it.. I hope you knew. You are missed greatly.. your son Cameron Nee Mud

“ Dad,

I cannot believe you are gone. It happened so fast. I have so many questions. How, why, what happened? Maybe in time I will understand, but for now, I am in awe at how you are no longer here to have another conversation with. Over the last few years (especially during Covid) I cherished each and every one of those conversations we had.

I grew up knowing you as a person to be feared. Only to learn you were nothing more than a gentle giant that only meant the best for everyone. I only wish when I was growing up what I know now.

For all of the grief and pain I caused you throughout the years, I am so sorry. You really did care and only wanted the best for us. Only, it wasn't until years later that I realized that. By then, the damage had been done. I am forever remorseful of the things I did to make your life harder.

I tell everyone that we lived a very limited life but that is not the truth at all. You always made sure that we had everything we needed and more. You provided so much more than that.

There are so many memories, where do I start. I will remember all of the memories we had from the KU games, Kansas City Kings, Kansas City Comets, Wrestling at Memorial Hall, NAIA tournaments, Royals games, Chiefs games, Sporting KC and even NASCAR. I will never forget all of those memories we shared at each and every one of these events.

Thank you for all of the life lessons you taught me. Thank you for all of the love, compassion and empathy you showed me throughout life.

When I talked to you at the Hospital, I had not realized that you would be gone days later.

Rest easy, your work on earth is done. Be at peace and say hello to Grandma and Grandpa.

I love you so much.
