“ I an saddened to hear of Lynn's death. We were shipmates on the USS Paul Revere. I remember watching the playoff game with Lynn between the Chiefs and Raiders. When we were in Hunters Point for six months of work, I took Lynn to Tahoe, with two of my hometown friends, and it was there that he got meet I future wife. We are getting ready to a trip through Kansas and I decide to so another search for Lynn and that was when my wife found his obituary. I am so sorry for your loss. He was one heck of a friend. God bless your family.

“ Lynn was my husband's (Robert Clay, Bobby to me, Bob to his friends) friend when we first met. Lynn was a good guy. Bobby enlisted with Lynn on the buddy system but after Naval boot camp they had different assignments so over the years they lost touch with each other. Bobby speaks of spending a lot of time with Lynn and family during their youth. So sorry for your your loss. Praying for peace and comfort for your family.

“ Lynn and I lived together, in 1967, along with his mom Norma and little brothers. Then we enlisted in the Navy in 1968. We went in under the Buddy system back then. We went to San Deigo for bootcamp. I remember we were standing at attention in ranks, we were not supposed to have anything in our pockets, they found a cigarette in one of his pockets, the DI made him eat it in front of all of us. He turned a little green.
