“ Letting me spend every summer with her and Grandpa no matter how full the house was. She would sing old tunes to me and yoddlle or make up songs as she went. Grandma could never say no to anything. I remember getting my learners permit and asked if I could drive. She would ask me to drive her everywhere. Fortunately she didn't teach me to ride the brake or drive with both feet. Grandma was always proud of the little things and always took pride in helping us learn. I loved to listen to her and Grandpa bicker with smiling grins on their faces or her laughing at Aunt Mary telling dirty jokes. She always gave in and let me Grandpa go fishing. What I will miss most is how I never made it out of the her house without three big kisses or her looking over at me and saying I Love You Snicker.
