“ *Rachel still doesn't seem right you not being here. I missed you coming home to your family for the holidays. I tell Bob all the time it just not right.
Well Your mom let me know yesterday that Grandma is coming home to you. I feel your mother's pain losing family so close together. I went through it with my family in 2005.
It seems life isn't fair ,we don't understand why God puts us through it. I try to keep up with your mom and dad making sure I am there for them.
Well take care Rachel please watch over your Mom and Dad from heaven and I will watch over them from here.*

Hello Rachel it's been a year doesn't seem right. It's a hard day for your parents. Your mom and dad was over today we reminisced about things you you to say when you were younger that embarrassed your mom. We sat here and had a laugh.

Your family had a scholarship fundraiser Saturday it turned out awesome. You would be proud your mom, dad and Jesse did a remarkable job.

I'm sure your up there with grandma and grandpa rejoicing being together. I met alot of your family at the fundraiser they are an exceptional bunch of folks. Wishing you were here.

Love Brenda Bob and Bud.

I am still in shock my self that this has happened. Rachel was such an intelligent and beautiful neighbor she was always so nice. Just a few weeks ago when she was home her and I stood in the street and talked she was telling me about college .She was happy to be closer to home. I will miss seeing her come home for holidays and summer break.
Please if you need anything or just someone to talk to know Bob & I are across the street.
