“RIP Uncle Ray. I'll always remember you as a happy jokster. We used to razz each other and wrestle around. It was a big deal when I was about 12-13 I could finally pick YOU up. I remember going to the furniture store with you and hanging out. Heck you even took me a long to your bowling tournaments a few times. Everything was always so different visiting from the country all the lights, noise, neighbors etc.

I wished we'd have been able to know each other as adults. I'd like to imagine we'd have had lots of laughs and good times.

I understand as most people you had a lot of personal issues that left you alienated the last few years. I also understand that many things in this life are unforgivable for what ever reason.

But unlike many people I've known he wasn't completely absent of decency.

I hope everyone is able to find closure with his passing be it one way or another. Personally I choose to hang onto the good times of which there were plenty. I'd encourage everyone no matter what their relationship with him was to try and do the same.

As I don't believe in an afterlife, I'm just happy that his suffering has come to an end. And hope that his life can be a lesson to others. As that is as much as the best of us could hope for.

I'm so sorry for everyone's loss who was closer to him than I was. As well as empathic to all their pain.

“ *To my Brother , First of all in having a hard time writing cuz my heart is crying .I know it's not for use to say .You see God as a plan for us and I know you have had a long talk with him . He called you early you see because he didn't want you to suffer anymore thank you God for taking him into your arms .Thats not the only reason why I want to talk to you I know you got lost in the way we all do but you're my big brother .I will always remember you and light a candle on your Birthday Day and holiday.ray I want to thank you as a Navy man in the military for helping America be safe from harm 🌹💔😇 I will miss your funny ways to make me laugh and memories of childhood having the time of our life's.Ha I just remembered when you came home from work you couldn't wait for your pop and ice cream you loved. I miss you already Big Brother!!
Rest in peace on your joinery*
